Introduction

One of the most treasured items on display at the Haskell Cultural Center and Museum is a large, worn ledger book which details the names and personal information of the first students – numbering over 1200 in all – who enrolled at Haskell Institute between its opening in 1884 and the end of 1889. The majority of the ledger is devoted to a section titled Register of Pupils at Haskell Institute, which occupies pages 68 – 351 and is an alphabetical listing of all the pupils who enrolled at Haskell in its first five and a half years.

There is no title on the cover or inside pages of the Haskell Enrollment Ledger, nor is there even a notation about when it was compiled. Since the entries in the book end in 1889, it is likely the record was made around that time, perhaps compiled from other, non-permanent records. It is clear, however, that the ledger was intended to be used as a working document and not merely a record to lie on a dusty shelf – there are a number of cross-outs and additions, along with several damaged pages. Most significantly, virtually all the student names in the book have been lined out (crossed over) in red or blue pencil. It is unclear when or why this happened, but we speculate that it probably was done at some point when the ledger was being used as a source to verify early enrollments at Haskell, with the names being crossed out as each one was verified. A small sample from one of the pages illustrates this (Figure 1).

The Enrollment Ledger lay unused for some period of time throughout the 1900s, when it was rediscovered in 1999 by Bobbi Rahder, then serving as the Haskell Archivist. She showed the book to Mila Capes-Altom, also of the Haskell Department of Archives, who transcribed the book and published it in December of 2000. Mila described the discovery and process of transcription in her introduction.

In 1999 a ledger book was found by Bobbi Rahder, HINU Archivist. Within the worn and deteriorating covers of the ledger book was the original handwritten enrollment and registry record for Haskell Institute's first five years of operations. The ledger book contained the handwritten records of pupils enrolled at Haskell from 1884 through 1889. Among the reasons for excitement among the archive staff was that this particular collection contains not only the names of the students, but also their ages, tribes, tribal names, parents and/or guardians, where they arrived from, their agencies and other items of great historical and genealogical relevance.

When Bobbi showed me the ledger I became completely enthralled with the possibilities of how important the information was, and ultimately could be for many Indigenous descendants and researchers today. Together, Bobbi and I slowly discovered the wealth of information written within those tired and damaged pages. I developed an extraction plan and the work began in the spring of 2000. It was totally finished in the fall of 2000.

At the time of Mila's transcription, she expressed the hope that funds would eventually be obtained to be able to microfilm the pages of the ledger to create a more permanent copy of it, microfilm being the best preservation technology at the time. With the advent of high-resolution digital cameras, we were able to make a complete digital photographic record of the Enrollment Ledger in 2018, with the goal of updating Mila's transcribed record and publishing it online.

Although we had a paper copy of Mila's original transcription, we were not able to locate a digital version, so we scanned the paper copy and converted it to text using optical character recognition (OCR), and then imported it into a spreadsheet program. We next examined the digital high-resolution photos of each of the pages of the Register of Pupils at Haskell Institute and compared them to Mila's transcription – the digital photos enabled us to visually enhance the contrast and color and to zoom in and out for improved legibility and context (this was especially helpful in light of all the crossed-out names). This made it possible for us to make a number of corrections and additions. In addition, we referenced a finding aid published by the Kansas City Branch of the National Archives that lists the entries for all the students in their large collection of Student Case Files for Haskell Institute, 1884 – 1920<sup>i</sup>. This also enabled us to confirm or correct a number of entries.

In Mila's original transcription, she had recorded four items for each student: Name, Age, Tribe, and Page Number. We have added several more items of information: Enrollment Date, Sex, Line Number on Page, and whether the student's name is found in the Student Case Files of the National Archives, mentioned above. In addition, in the process of our review, we discovered and added over 100 names that had been inadvertently overlooked during the original transcription.

Ledger Contents

As noted above, the cover of the Enrollment Ledger is blank, with no title or numbering. This is true of the first several pages on the inside of the ledger. The ledger itself actually consists of three sections, although they are not numbered as such: (1) A non-numbered tabbed index to the Register of Pupils section of the ledger (Section 3), (2) A listing of groups of students who came to Haskell from Chilocco Indian Agricultural School in north-central Oklahoma and from several Indian agencies in Kansas and Indian Territory in Oklahoma, and (3) the Register of Pupils at Haskell Institute, an alphabetical listing of students who enrolled at Haskell from its opening in 1884 through 1889, which is our focus here.

1. Tabbed Index.

The first section consists of 26 non-numbered tabbed pages, one for each letter of the alphabet; each page simply contains the beginning page number for the corresponding letter of the alphabet for the Register of Pupils portion of the ledger (i.e. Section 3). For example, the tab for the letter “L” refers the reader to page 196.

2. Groups of transfer students (1884).

The second section comprises pages 1 through 67. Page 1 is blank. Pages 2 through 67 contain information on students who transferred to Haskell Institute from Chilocco Indian Agricultural School and several Indian agencies in 1884, Haskell’s first year of operation. In most cases, four pages are devoted to each group of students, with blank pages often separating the student groups. It should be noted that the 160 students listed in this section are not all the students who enrolled at Haskell in 1884 – the actual total for that year was 288. Furthermore, virtually all the students listed in this section are also listed in the main section of the ledger – Section 3, Register of Pupils. The transfer groups and their numbers were as follows (Table 1):

3. Register of Pupils at Haskell Institute

Pages 68 through 354 comprise the Register of Pupils at Haskell Institute. The entries are in alphabetical sections, with each letter of the alphabet starting on a new page. All students listed in each alphabetical section are numbered consecutively, generally by their year of entry, with the numbers starting over for each letter of the alphabet. The information for each list of students covers four pages in the Register, with separate columns for each item of information (the columns in the ledger are not numbered, but we number them here for convenience (Table 2).

What the Register of Pupils Tells Us

In addition to information about each individual student who enrolled, the Haskell Register of Pupils provides some key insights into the characteristics of the first Haskell student body. To that end, we have summarized several items of statistical information about Haskell's student body from 1884 through 1889. These include the number of new enrollees per year, the age makeup of the student body, male versus female enrollment numbers, and enrollments by Tribe.

Number of new enrollees, by year

The number of annual enrollments at Haskell can be seen in tabular form in Table 3 and in graphical form in Figure 2 (the numbers are for calendar years beginning in January rather than academic years that began in September). It is important to note that the annual numbers are for new student enrollments for each year and do not indicate the total enrollment for that year, which would have been higher, since many students stayed on from the previous year. A total of 1219 students enrolled in the period 1884 through 1889, for an average annual new student enrollment of 203, although averages rarely tell the whole story. The highest enrollment for the period was in 1884, the first year of operation – this is not surprising in light of the push to make Haskell successful from the start.

Just two years later, however, new enrollment had fallen disastrously to only 42. What had caused this precipitous drop off in numbers? Was it a loss of funds? An outbreak of disease? While there were indeed problems with funding and disease outbreaks during the first two years of operation, the sharp decline in enrollments appears to have been caused by the appointment of a new Superintendent, Col. Arthur Grabowskii in mid-1885. In Myriam Vučković's history of Haskell, she describes Col. Grabowskii's administration this way:

Grabowskii introduced a military-like system that divided students into five companies of cadet battalions that served to break up tribal groups and any kind of resistance to school rules. Corporal punishment, as well as the introduction of a school prison, reflected the superintendent's strict reign. Even though praised by some, Grabowskii's methods triggered much resentment. The Lawrence Tribune, for instance, criticized him for his brutality and general cruelty toward the students. Many students refused to be treated that way and deserted from the school; others wrote letters home, complaining about their treatment<sup>ii</sup>.

To stem the tide of falling enrollments, Grabowskii was let go and former Kansas Governor Charles Robinson was prevailed upon to temporarily take over as superintendent. He rolled back at least some of Grabowskii's policies and practices and made personal visits to reservations in an effort to persuade parents to send their children to Haskell. The rebound in enrollments in 1887 indicates that he was successful in beginning to turn things around.

Number of students by age

A graphical view of the age of students at their date of enrollment can be seen in Figure 3. The median age for all students enrolled during this period was 15. The youngest child enrolled was 3 years old, while the oldest was 35. However, it is clear from Figure 3 that the age group of 12 to 20 year-olds made up the great majority of the students.

When the first Haskell students are grouped by age cohorts, another interesting picture emerges. In Table 4, the age groups roughly correspond to current ages for Pre-K, Elementary, Junior High, High School, College, and older adults. The age groups for each of the elementary through college-age students are somewhat comparable in size, while the older adult group is much smaller, and the pre-K group consists of only two children. By far the largest combined age grouping is teen-agers (13 through 18), with a total of 546 students, while children (12 and younger) account for 334 students, and adults (19 through 35) altogether total 220. It should be noted that the age column was left blank for 119 students.

Number of male and female students

Perhaps unsurprisingly, two-thirds of the students who enrolled at Haskell from 1884 through 1889 were male, although females were strongly represented with one-third of all enrollees (Figure 4).

Number of students enrolled by Tribe

Students representing 46 Tribes enrolled at Haskell Institute from 1884 through 1889. These first students largely came from the surrounding region, primarily representing reservations in Indian Territory (Oklahoma) and Kansas, although there were some students from more distant areas. (Of course, the student body makeup changed significantly in coming years.) By far the largest numbers of students came from the Potawatomi, Cheyenne, and Osage Tribes, with over 100 students each – together they comprised just over 43% of the student body. Five additional Tribes each had over 50 students: Pawnee, Shawnee, Cherokee, Arapaho, and Ponca, accounting for another 26% of all students. The makeup of the first Haskell student body can be seen by the numbers in Table 5 and graphically in Figure 5.

How to Use This List and the Register Photos

In the listing of the Register of Pupils below, we have compiled a complete alphabetical list, by last name, of all students in the Register of Pupils. There you will see the date the student entered Haskell, along with their Tribe, age, and sex. Next you will see the page number and line number where the person’s name can be found in the Register of Pupils – these are the keys to viewing the person’s entry in the photographs of the Register to get further information. The final item, labeled “Case File?”, indicates whether there is a file for that person in the Haskell Student Case Files at the Kansas City Branch of the National Archives.

Remember that not all information in the enrollment register has been transcribed! A lot of important additional information can be found by looking at the photographs of the pages of the Register. This information may include the person's Indian name, the name and address of their parent or guardian, and the circumstances under which the student left Haskell.

To find the photograph of the register page of the student you are interested in, first find the person's name in the alphabetical listing of students and then look up the page number and line number for that person. Next, open the photograph for that person's page, then scan down the page to find the person's line number. The pages in the ledger were photographed with two pages to a photograph, so to view all four pages of information for a person in the ledger you need to look at two photos.

Here's how it works.

Let's say we want to look up the information for a student named James Hamilton:

- - First, find James Hamilton in the alphabetical listing of students – you'll see that his starting page is 156, and his entry is on line 2 of that page.
  - To view the original entries for James you first need to open the photo named Page156_Haskell_Register.jpg, which has images for pages 156 and 157 (see Figure 6, top two photos).
    - You'll see that he entered Haskell on December 9, 1884. Following his English name, James Hamilton, you can see that his Indian name was Hawk Walk and his degree of blood was listed as Full. On the following page (page 157) you'll find that he was Cheyenne, 20 years old, male, and his address was Darlington, I.T. (Indian Territory). He departed from Haskell on July 11, 1889 because his term had expired (i.e., he remained at Haskell for the full period he enrolled for, which was apparently 5 years).
  - For additional information about James, you would open the next photo, Page158_Haskell_Register.jpg, which has images for pages 158 and 159 (Figure 6, bottom two photos). (Note that the person's line number is not repeated on the next page, so you may need to count the number of lines down from the top to be sure you're on the right line.)
    - There is no death date listed for James. His parent or guardian was Elk Horn, also of Darlington, I.T. On the facing page (page 159) under General Remarks we see that James returned to Haskell for a second term of two years, although the year isn't given.
